

Fluid Contributor Gallery Submission Guide

What is the Fluid Contributor Gallery

The Fluid Contributor Gallery is a place where Infusion users can find third-party contributions. Fluid welcomes a wide range of contributions, from new components and helpful utilities to new themes, styles, and designs.

Submission Requirements

For a submission to be showcased in the Fluid Contributor Gallery it must meet the following basic criteria:

- Accompanied by a signed Fluid Contributor License Agreement, assuring users that the code will be available under an Infusion-compatible license
- Code and CSS should follow a few simple best practices:
 - Use a unique namespace (hint: pick your own namespace, rather than using Fluid's)
 - Validate using Fluid's JSLint

What to Include in a Submission

A submission should include the following:

- The code/css/design contribution
- A demo illustrating the particulars of the contribution (if applicable)
 - Try to keep any demo code, styles, markup, etc. separate from the contribution itself
- A screenshot (if possible)
- A signed Fluid Contributor License Agreement
- A README file explaining to prospective users the following information:
 - license
 - description
 - dependencies
 - what configurations it should work in, has been tested in, and/or has been designed for
 - any other relevant information

How to Submit

Submissions can be sent to the fluid-work mailing list, as either an archive (e.g. zip or tar) or as a link to a public repository. If a link to a repository is provided, please include a link to a stable branch or tag.

Sample Contribution

Below is a sample contribution that you can use to help package up your own contribution.

- On github: sample
- as a tar: sample
- as a zip: sample