Assignment submission (Student Primary Scenario)

Ashley goes to the study room in the library and sits at a big table with her classmates. Today is the deadline for the weekly assignment for Archeology 232, and everyone is working on it together. Ashley logs into MSN and chats with a friend of hers, John, who took the course last year. John sends Ashley his old assignment over MSN. Ashley discusses John's answers with her friends she is sitting with.

Once she has a completed assignment in a word document, she logs into Moodle, and opens up the Archeology 232 site.

She clicks on Assignments, where she can view all of the assignment instructions for Archeology 232.
